Since 1957, Dr. Trow has been at the University of California at Berkeley serving in various faculty and research positions. He is currently Professor of Sociology in the Graduate School of Public Policy and Director of the Center for Studies in Higher Education. Dr. Trow also serves as Chairman of the Academic Senate of the University of California, Berkeley. Professor Trow is a trustee of Carleton College. In 1965-66, Dr. Trow was a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences and in 1976-77 he was a visiting member of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton. He is a member of the panel on grants for research on institutions of postsecondary education, National Instititute of Education. Professor Trow is a member of the National Academy of Education. Between 1969 and 1972, Dr. Trow directed the National Surveys of Higher Education for the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and in 1974-1976 he directed a similar survey for the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education. Martin A. Trow has written extensively on topics relating to the sociology of education, especially on faculty and student relationships, democratization of higher education, cross-cultural dimensions of higher education institutions, and research methodology.
